MEMORANDUM FOR: Director, Foreign Broadcast Information Service
FROM : Chief, London Bureau
THROUGH : Chief, Operations Group
SUBJECT : Monthly Report - London Bureau - November 1985

I. GENERAL

1. In a breakthrough for financial planning by the BBC External Services, which includes the Monitoring Service, the government has agreed to funding and budgets under a three-year system. For 45 years money for BBC overseas broadcasts has been granted by Parliament on a one-year basis, with resulting annual cost problems. According to the FINANCIAL TIMES, the new three-year budget will rise from £92 million this year to £100 million in 1987-88. But THE GUARDIAN reported Managing Director Austen Kark as warning that "it does not provide any fresh money for expansion of output. If we want to boost programs for one part of the world we still have to draw in our antennas somewhere else." The Foreign Office agreed, according to THE GUARDIAN, that up to 10 percent of capital underspending may be rolled over into the following year's budget, which will improve management of transmitter replacement projects in which the BBC is now engaged.
2. Final announcement is still awaited on the structure and equity stakes of SuperChannel, a satellite-delivered television channel for western European cable networks backed by the "big five" of Britain's ITV companies with BBC collaboration. According to press reports early in the month, the BBC would not take an equity stake but would make its programs available in return for a partial payment when programs were screened, plus a percentage of SuperChannel's profits. While the BBC is opposed to carrying advertising on its own broadcast services, it reportedly sees no conflict in accepting advertising in Europe on a satellite-beamed service. Reportedly, it is hoped to launch SuperChannel next autumn; it would run about 18 hours a day, offering the best of ITV and BBC programs, using an Intelsat satellite. Although not aimed specifically at Britain, the service would cover most of the country.
3. The continuing slide of the dollar against the pound has made a seeress of Senior Admin Assistant [redacted] whose prudent projection in 1984 of a rate of $1.60 for FY-86 may prove the salvation of the bureau budget this year. The current rate is $1.50.

II. OPERATIONS

Editorial/Monitorial

1. The Reagan-Gorbachev summit in Geneva and summit-related materials, along with preliminary documents for the upcoming CPSU Congress and economic, social and financial reports to the Supreme Soviet, were responsible for helping produce what Communications Supervisor Dibley called the busiest month in the history of London Bureau "by a LONG way." Total punched wordage was 3,166,550, up 5,000 words daily from the previous highest month. Only two times in the past has the bureau reached a six-figure daily average, which this month was 105,550. Thanksgiving was no holiday for editors and teleops on duty, clearing 155,300 words that day alone.
2. Meanwhile, in PMU, the Russian team and editors provided consumers with documents for the CPSU Congress in February: the draft CPSU program, the draft amended CPSU statutes, and the draft basic guidelines of economic and social development for 1986-90 and the period up to 2000 - over 90 takes of material received from pressfax transmissions on Fridays and processed by Saturday or at most early Sunday. In addition, PMU provided the eight-take IZVESTIYA version of the Soviet correspondents' pre-summit interview with President Reagan in Washington, and knocked off Gosplan chief Talyzin's economic and social development report and First Deputy Finance Minister Dementsev's budget report to the 26 November session of the USSR Supreme Soviet. Much of this material was backstopped by editorial filing of TASS English versions and various BBC comparisons.
3. A pressfax record of sorts was also established this month. The daily transmission, which generally begins around 1400 GMT, did not start on the 21st until six hours later, at 2005, as Moscow newspapers struggled to get that day's closing summit materials into the next day's press.

From the bureau: Bureau Chief [redacted] paid his first visit to Islamabad Unit on TDY 2-6 November. On the local scene, he and Chief Editor [redacted] were given a Bush House tour by Acting General Manager, Monitoring Service Roland Challis on the 27th.

Several bureau representatives went out on the conference/exhibition/book fair circuit in London this month. PMU editors [redacted] attended the Aslib 7th International Conference on Translating and the Computer, concluding that its usefulness from PMU's viewpoint was limited, but that attendance at future conferences might be worth while if the agenda indicated that topics under discussion were relevant to PMU operations. Communications Supervisor [redacted] and his deputy, [redacted] and Tabulation Unit Chief [redacted] visited the Computer Pro Users exhibition, an annual affair which has grown to massive proportions but did provide useful information on new and existing hardware and software. PMU Arabist [redacted] looked in at the annual Arab Book Fair at the School of Oriental and African Studies, at which most of the Arab countries, with the notable exception of Egypt, were represented with their own bookstalls. While the books on display were a fairly representative cross section of subject matter, the major focus was predictably on Islamic subjects.
